

INVESTING IN THE FUTURE

Construction is well underway on the College's purpose-designed specialist learning block. This will expand opportunities for creativity, innovation and academic excellence, supporting our incredible academic team in the wide range of specialist subjects offered at the school.

The building will include dedicated Visual Art and Dramatic Arts studios, a commercial-style Consumer Studies kitchen and a multi-purpose venue suitable for Matric exams. This will also offer a flexible teaching and event space. Additional breakaway areas will support small-group learning, collaboration and a variety of academic and co-curricular activities.

Mrs Green says the project reflects the College's commitment to preparing students for an ever-changing world.

"This new building is far more than the rooms that are taking shape. It is an investment in our students and in their futures. The spaces have been carefully designed to encourage creativity, critical thinking, collaboration and innovation, while supporting the diverse talents of our students."

As construction progresses, this represents more than a new building – it is an investment in the opportunities, experiences and future of the young people who will learn and grow within it.
